

Development Intelligence Industry Briefing

Credible and reliable information is the cornerstone of building a great business. UDIA NSW is your trusted source of development industry information. It's more than headlines, it's providing the detail that makes a real difference to your businesses performance.

Leading industry commentator Rob Ellis from Property Insights and Martin Wells of Cardno will deliver you Development Intelligence, a quarterly report featuring a comprehensive suite of industry statistics and analysis including Sydney's land supply bottle necks.

Minister Keneally recently launched and supported the Development Intelligence Report, saying, 'I commend the work that UDIA has done on the Development Intelligence Report - this type of leadership role is significant and welcomed by the Government.'

This industry briefing will provide a commentary on the report and the opportunity to ask questions directly to Rob Ellis and Martin Wells over breakfast. Now more than ever you need to get access to the most credible and reliable industry intelligence and only UDIA NSW will deliver it to you.

Rob Ellis
Managing Director
Property Insights

Rob Ellis created Property Insights to provide in-depth research information to the property sector. The scope of research undertaken ranges from the implications of macro-economic events on the property sector to the analysis of an individual development project.

Rob previously held the position of General Manager for Group Research at Stockland, where he undertook research using both macro and micro economic approaches including office, industrial and retail research. Prior to this Rob was the Chief Economist with Ord Minnett Securities and Asset Market Strategist for BNP Paribas.

Martin Wells
Area Manager Cardno NSW
Co-Chair UDIA NSW Metro Land Release & Infrastructure Committee

Martin Well's career spans 20 years commencing with six years in local government before shifting to a career in consulting. He was a director of Wollongong firm Forbes Rigby which merged with Cardno in 2006. He is currently responsible for over 150 technical staff working in the field of planning, design and delivery of urban infrastructure projects with specialist expertise in roads, bridges, structures, flooding, drainage and utilities.
